The Ontario Plan in Corrections

Modern correctional services stress rehabilitation of the adult offender. In our institutions, programmes are geared to the individual needs of each offender and include group and individual counselling, spiritual guidance, academic and trade training, acquiring of routine work habits, and purposeful recreational activities. The principal aim of the Ontario Plan in Corrections is to bring about not only a change in behaviour but, of more importance, a change in the offender's attitudes towards himself and towards society in general.

Youngsters who are admitted to Ontario Training Schools by the Juvenile and Family Court have usually come under the care of service agencies in the community, but have been unable to respond to this assistance. It is the concern of our schools to bring about a change in the lives of these youngsters, to encourage them to enjoy life, and at the same time to obtain the training so necessary in this modern society. Academic, vocational, spiritual and recreational training are a part of the programme for every youngster.
